

CITY INTENDS TO CLOSE MORE 'SOFT' DRINK PLACES ON 25TH ST.

Mayor and Commission Determined to Proceed With Cleanup Despite Protests; Actual Seizure of Liquor Deemed Not Essential

Action of the city commission Tuesday in revoking the licenses and closing four soft drink parlors on Twenty-fifth street upon reports of federal and police officers that liquor was being sold, today brought a maelstrom of protest from certain business men and lawyers who have been retained by the proprietors of the closed places.

Despite the pressure brought to bear the city commission members declared they will hold firmly to their plan to clean up Twenty-fifth street and frankly told the business men who attempted to intercede and the lawyers representing the proprietors that they could take the matter to court if they wished, but the commission would not backstep an inch in its stand to wipe out the illicit liquor traffic.

ATTITUDE DEFINED. The commissioners further announced that several other soft drink parlors are now under consideration and it is probable that within a day or so they will also be closed.

"We are not waiting until liquor can be actually found in the soft-drink parlors by officers and analyzed by a chemist before bringing action," Mayor Frank Francis and the commissioners declared today, "for this is difficult and has been the stumbling block in the past."

"We are being guided instead by the general reputation of the places and when we are morally certain that violations of the law are being made, even though raids are not made and liquor actually found, we are going to revoke licenses."

MORE UNDER SCRUTINY. This applies not only to soft-drink parlors, but to commercialized gambling places and blinds where narcotics are being sold. The time is at hand where the city will proceed immediately to take radical action to clean up the Twenty-fifth street situation.

"The commission has several more places under consideration and action in revoking their licenses will probably be taken at once.

As soon as the licenses were revoked Tuesday there was a general scramble on the part of the proprietors to have their licenses transferred to other places. This is being blocked, however, and the commission will not permit this method of deception to be used. Applicants who desire to take over the licenses of those revoked must appear personally before the board and lay down their full plans for operation in the future. They must also give assurance that the law will not be made in the future. The reputation of the applicant and recommendations of the police will also be taken into consideration by the commission before the transfer of license is approved.

LAWYERS ARGUE. Lawyers for the proprietors of the places closed Tuesday appeared before the board this morning and argued that the action of the city constituted an invasion of their property rights and unfair dealing with the men who had established a business.

The answer of the commission was that it would proceed in its action of Tuesday in cases where it was morally certain that violations were being made. The pressure being brought to bear by certain business men seeking to head the commission from taking further action will be entirely disregarded.

ONE PLACE SOLD. It was explained to the commission this morning that one of the places closed Tuesday in the name of Peter Basopoulos had been purchased some time ago and conducted by George Poulas. Records in the office of the city recorder showed that Poulas had not had the license transferred or applied for a new license.

The trucks were given to the city by the government with the agreement that the city would pay the freight from the east which totaled $1500.

BUILD TRAILS TO FIGHT FIRES

Forest Service to Devote Much Attention to Minor Road Work

It will be the policy of the forest service in the next two years to build as many minor roads and trails as can be built out of the appropriation of $5,500,000 in order that the fire hazard on the various national forests may be reduced as low as possible.

This was the statement made today by Assistant Forester Roy Headley in charge of the department of operations of the forest service with headquarters at Washington, who is in Ogden attending the conference of forest service officials of district four.

E. W. Kelley, inspector of roads, trails and fire control and C. E. Ruchford, inspector of grazing, both with headquarters at Washington, are also attending the conference.

GRAZING AND FIRE CONTROL. The conference opened yesterday, when grazing problems were discussed in relation to grazing and fire control. It was the consensus of opinion that ways and means should be developed in order that stockmen would be able to place stock for grazing purposes on forests that offer good ranges and that at present are not being used.

During the remainder of the week there is to be discussed such questions as the planning of the work of the supervisors and the rangers in a way that they will have a more definite knowledge as to what they are supposed to do while on the various forests, the question of fire, fire causes, field work, transportation costs and financial plans.

TRAIL WORK. Minor road and trail work is also to be discussed and in regard to that subject Assistant Forester Headley said that the present appropriation was larger than heretofore and that it is to be expended in order that forests heretofore inaccessible may be made accessible.

He said that many of the forests in southern and northern Idaho and also in Oregon and Washington with heavy stands of timber were in need of more minor roads and trails in order that fires might be reached more readily and sections opened up at which to establish stations. Following the building of the minor roads and trails telephone lines will be put in to reduce the fire hazard. The building of these roads and trails should allow the service to get within two or three miles of any fire, he said. When this work has been completed and more funds made available more roads and trails will be built in that fires that start more be more easily reached.

FIRE LOSS DWINDLE. He also called attention to the fact that within the last few years fire losses had been steadily decreasing. The worst season was between 1910 and 1913 since which time considerable progress has been made, he said, in preventing fires and also in decreasing the costs of fighting fires. This work he said was to be continued until such expenditures had been reduced to the minimum.

The officials will leave here at the end of the week for Missoula, Mont., where a similar conference is to be held.

SCENES OF NATIONAL PARK FREE. At Weber Normal College at 8:00 p. m. Wednesday, March 29th, Randall Jones, lecturer, will display an elaborate set of beautiful STEREOPTICONS colored slides depicting scenic views of the National Park, Cedar Breaks, Bryce Canyon and North Rim of Grand Canyon. SEEKS RECOVERY ON PROMISSORY NOTES. Suit has been filed in the district court by A. D. Bates against T. Poulos, seeking recovery of $1800 alleged to be due on two promissory notes executed August 25, 1920, and September 15, 1919. Judgment is sought.

M'MASTER LEADS IN S. DAKOTA PRIMARY. SIOUX FALLS, S. D., March 29.—With returns from Tuesday's primary election coming in, Governor W. H. McMaster's lead over Governor Egan of Sioux Falls for the Republican gubernatorial nomination is being gradually increased.

Latest returns from Republican state headquarters at Huron show that 932 precincts out of 1711 in the state reported, his governor's majority has reached 21,296. The vote stood:

McMaster, 45,396; Egan, 27,100.

The contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination was the only question of state-wide interest before the people Tuesday, both L. M. Crill, Democratic candidate, and Miss Alice Leadline, endorsed by the Nonpartisan league, being unopposed.

For this reason, in some sections of the state, an unusually light vote was polled.

BOMB EXPLODES IN MEETING OF 'DRYS.' GREENBAY, Wis., March 29.—Investigation was begun by the police today to determine the origin of a bomb which was set off in the Congregational church here Tuesday night during an address by Lewis R. Horton, Spokane, Wash., prohibition worker.

The bomb, made from gunpowder, and loosely packed in a small box, exploded as it was being carried from the building by E. C. Walker, Mr. Walker's arm was severely burned.

About 500 persons who had congregated to hear an address by William E. (Boss) Johnson, internationally known prohibition worker, remained seated, although about 10 ran from the church and one woman fainted.

Mr. Johnson spoke as scheduled but made no reference to the bomb incident.

LOSES WIFE; ASKS CHURCH TO FIND HER

Lost—a wife! That is the predicament that George E. Cook of Three Forks, Montana, finds himself in.

In a communication to the Ogden state offices of the L. D. S. church Cook seeks information concerning the whereabouts of an uncle of his wife, whose name he does not know.

Some months ago Cook was residing in Nevada with his wife, Mrs. W. Smith Cook, who left Nevada for Salt Lake. Leaving Salt Lake she departed for England to visit with relatives.

Since leaving Nevada Cook has worked in Idaho and later in Montana. Letters from his wife have failed to reach him and he doesn't know where to address her. For this reason he is seeking the location of the unknown uncle.

Anyone having information concerning the whereabouts of the former Mrs. Smith is asked to get in communication with the Ogden state offices.
